

Managing Cancer Pain at End of Life

Online information session

SMRPCC presents a special online session as part of our Trending Sessions.

Dr Akshay Kulkarni is a physician in General and Acute medicine and palliative medicine. He holds a Fellowship to the Royal Australasian College of Physicians and the Australasian Chapter of Palliative Medicine (FRACP, FACHPM).

He works across multiple sites in Melbourne with appointments at Alfred Health, Peninsula Home Hospice and Cabrini Health. His areas of interest include integration of hospital and community palliative care services. He works to collaborate with General Practitioners with education programs through the GP Special Interest Group (GP SIG) with Peninsula Home Hospice.

His other interests include improving communication skills in junior doctors across various platforms within Alfred Health. He is a RACP accredited supervisor for Advanced Training in Palliative Medicine.
